CITYGREENS SHELDON PARK, SOLIHULL

---

A STUNNING PARK FRONTED RESIDENTIAL DEVELOPMENT.

Between Birmingham's booming city centre and the international airport hub, sits CityGreens. Located directly on Sheldon Country Park, Birmingham's largest green space, and within the popular residential borough of Solihull residents will have all the perks of city life as well as ample lush, green space to relax and unwind in.

Located directly on Sheldon Park, just 4.5 miles to the city centre and close to some of the areas best schools it is easy to see why the area is so popular.

The building makes the most of its location with an abundance of space and light in all apartments. Floor to ceiling windows across all apartments make the most of the apartment aspects, while balconies, roof terraces and garden terraces connect the building directly to its park fronted location.

Perhaps the most notable example of architectural design within CityGreens are the angled windows, which feature on both blocks. The spatially orientated aperture of this character feature maximises light and creates a new lament of visual interest from the inside and outside.

BIRMINGHAM

THE YOUNGEST CITY IN EUROPE

Strategically located in the heart of the UK, Birmingham is the UK's second city which has long benefited from its geography, and is a constantly popular part of the country to live and work. The city was a central part of the industrial revolution and is now dominated by finance and the services sector that contributes to the single biggest economy outside of London with a GDP of £120bn.

A GROWING POPULATION

A key reason for Birmingham's position as Europe's youngest city is Education. It is home to 5 universities and 80,000 students, with a further 20 universities within an hour of Greater Birmingham. Of those the city retains a whopping 49% of students after graduation, while Birmingham attracts the third largest number of graduates with no prior links to the city. Over the past 15 years, there has been a significant amount of urban regeneration and investment that has taken place and even more is stated for the future.

The redevelopment of Birmingham New Street Station and the extended tram network are paying dividends to the city centre, already helping to stimulate further local regeneration. With a vibrant city centre that plays host to a huge amount of the country's leading companies and a growing population of young professionals who are choosing Birmingham as their home.

BIRMINGHAM'S BIG CITY PLAN

35% of Birmingham's GDP is now from financial services Goldman Sachs, who are now the latest firm to move to the city, joining HSBC and Deutsche Bank.

COMMERCIAL MIGRATION INTO BIRMINGHAM IS AT A RECORD HIGH

The Big City Plan is the most ambitious, far-reaching development project ever undertaken in the UK. Birmingham has transformed and is almost unrecognisable to the city of 20 years ago. New commercial and residential developments have reshaped the city centre, with The Big City Plan turning Birmingham into a world class city. Birmingham has become a national and international destination for business, leisure and tourism. With the extension of Birmingham International Airport's runway, followed by the £650 million investment into New Street station and improvements to the public realm such as Centenary Square and Paradise, it is easy to see why.

URBAN LIVING AND THE CITY SPRAWL

A key part of the Big City Plan has been to increase the size of the city core by 25%, improving transport connectivity throughout the seven 'quarters' that make up the city centre. Of those seven 'quarters' three residential districts have stood out within the city's core; with the Jewellery Quarter proving very popular with young professionals and more recently the emergence of SouthSide as a premium destination and Digbeth (to the south east) taking its first steps towards redevelopment.

This map of the Big City Plan, available on their publicly available website, details the city's sprawl to the south and southeast. This is influenced by the investment in New Street Station, the new Metro system and the arrival of HS2 and the construction of the new Curzon Street Station. As the city continues to sprawl from the southern gateway it is little wonder that Coventry Road through to the airport and the district of Solihull are witnessing the ripple effect of the city's boom.

SOLIHULL AND THE SUBURBAN BOOM

With any city that attracts big business, graduates, and professionals to its city core, there is a growing amount of professionals and families that prefer to set up life outside of the hustle and bustle of the city centre. Infact, in March 2022 the Solihull and CityGreens postcode of B26 was the most searched postcode amongst home buyers in the region.

SOLIHULL & SHELDON PARK

Solihull has been voted amongst the best places to live in the UK, one survey there found that residents of Solihull enjoyed higher incomes, better employment rates and longer life expectancies. While just 5 miles to the city core, Solihull is more than a popular commuter town. It has a historic market centre, bustling shops and high end restaurants, as well as being the administrative hub for the area. It has long been Birmingham's most affluent suburb, a mix of lush green spaces, historic architecture and industry.

Home to Jaguar Landrover, the town's biggest employer for many years, while the broader district is home to: Birmingham Business Park, Birmingham International Airport, the New HS2 terminal, a planned new tram network, a zero emissions bus network and an outstanding network of schools.

AN AREA OF OUTSTANDING NATURAL BEAUTY

Sheldon Park

Solihull has over 1,500 acres of parks – 10 of which are Green Flag Award parks - and open spaces. Take a trip to Brueton Park, on the edge of the town centre and visit the Parkridge Centre with its 5.5 acre nature area or stroll through Olton Jubilee Park with its basketball area, BMX Track and playground.

Its largest and perhaps most famous park Sheldon Country Park spans from the Airport right down to Coventry Road where CityGreens opens out directly onto the southernmost entrance.

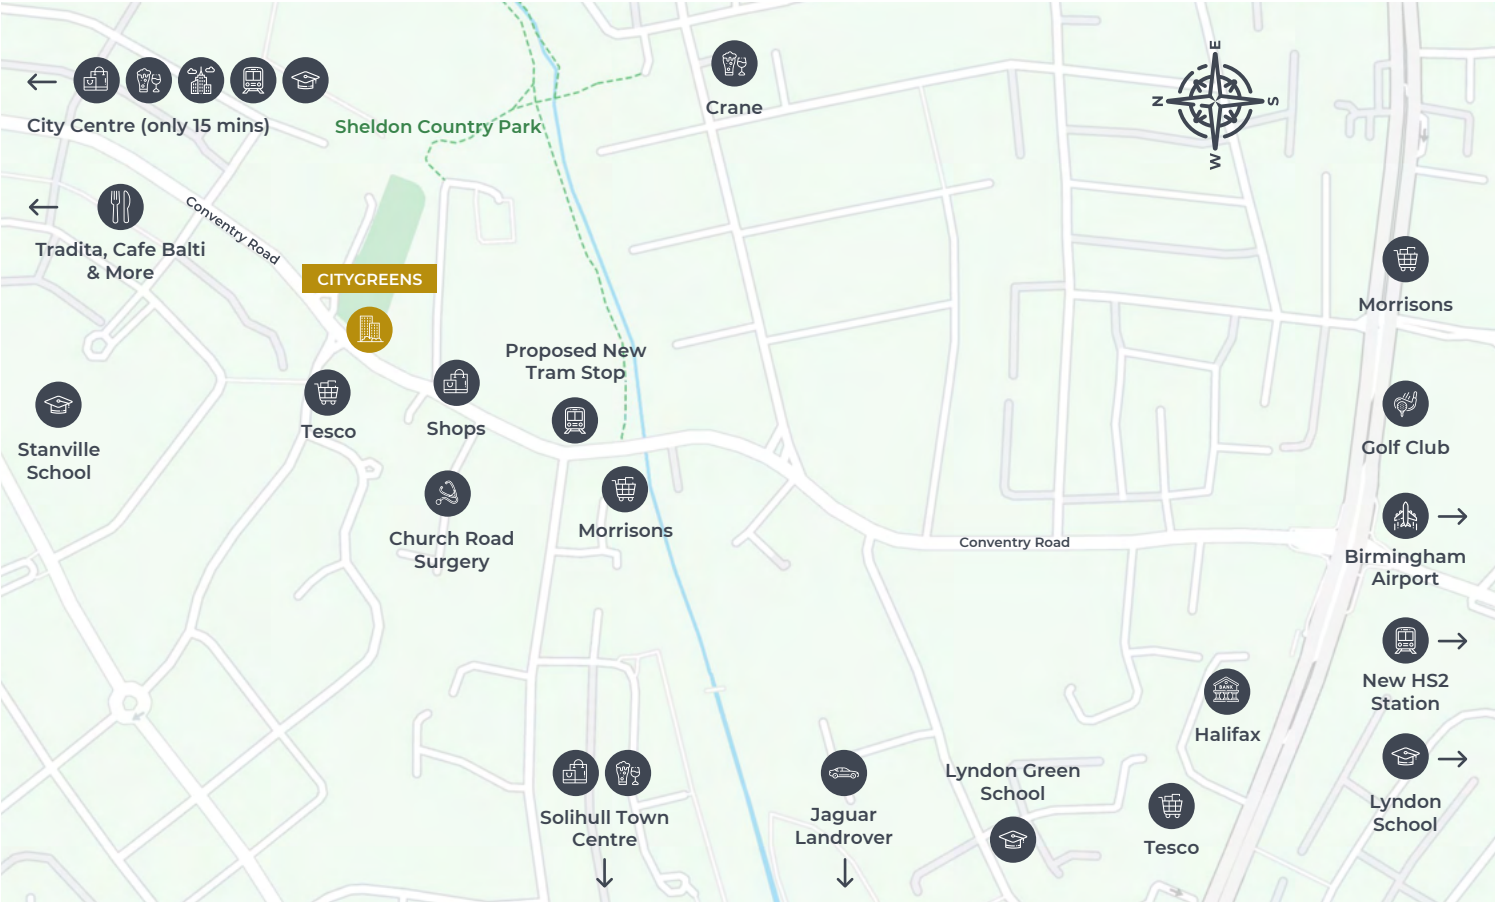

Whether you are looking for your next home or a popular rental property it is very easy to see why Sheldon Park & Solihull is in such demand.
